Dear Danny,

My staff very much enjoyed the corporate team-building event you put on for us last month. This is the second year we've been with you and it was every bit as exciting and fun as last year.

My staff are knowledgeable workers: administration, sales, finance, software programmers. Most of them have never been on motorcycles before your mini-camp. I found several benefits of putting them in your hands for a day.

- It leveled the playing field; they all were put in a situation where they had no experience and they had to adapt on the fly. No one had an advantage.
- They got to enjoy their co-workers in a non-business environment.
- It created excitement both before and after the event. They're still talking about it.
- They created bonds outside the office that I'm confident will increase their effectiveness as a team at work.

Thanks again for a great event and a day of fun!

Warm Regards,

Rich Schurfeld
